Phuket – Khao Sok Roundtrip

Tour ID: D

A compact way to discover many of the gems of southern Thailand. In just four days, you will gain a glimpse of what the country has to offer: breathtaking views over the UNESCO World Heritage-listed Phang Nga National Park with its countless limestone islands, followed by a boat tour to 'James Bond Island.' Additionally, you'll experience a night in the relaxed Khao Sok National Park with a guided canoe tour through the jungle, and finally, another afternoon and an overnight stay in Khao Lak with its seemingly endless beach along the Andaman Sea. All of this takes place on many hidden and low-traffic side roads of the Phang Nga and Surat Thani provinces, which border Phuket to the north.

4 days | 3 nights | 4 stages from 65 km to 114 km | Total 381 km | Total 2.910 m ascent

Day 1

1st stage, Phuket – Phang Nga = 108 km | wavy | 815 m ascent
Trip to the famous Phang Nga Bay in the afternoon

In the morning, we depart from the Siam Bike Tours shop in Choeng Thale/Laguna. We load the luggage onto the van, and after equipping the bicycles and a tour briefing, we finally set off. After about 30 kilometers, we cross the Sarasin Bridge and reach the mainland, from where we take picturesque back roads through tropical landscapes. In Samet Nangshe, we stop at a beautiful viewpoint with a popular café. In the afternoon, we glide in longboats through a world of rocky islands covered in lush green vegetation. The Phang Nga Bay National Marine Park is known for its pristine mangrove landscape. At a certain age, one can recognize the rock formations from the movie "The Man with the Golden Gun" and understand why the trip is called the "James Bond Island Tour."

A narrow pass winds its way through the dense jungle. During the exhilarating descent through the jungle, we reach Thaput and take a coffee break. Bizarre limestone formations accompany us constantly. Finally, we arrive at Phanom, the gateway to Khao Sok National Park. The road leads through a fairytale-like valley. In the afternoon, we enjoy a canoe tour on the nearby river. Strange limestone cliffs and dense jungle peacefully pass us by. The national park is famous for its plant diversity and wildlife. B | L incl.
