Tour D, Phuket – Khao Sok Nationalpark – Phang Nga – Phuket

A fascinating road bike tour from Phuket Island to the northern mainland. The journey takes us along the picturesque limestone formations of Khao Sok National Park to the stunning landscape of Phang Nga Bay.

4 stages from 85 km (53 miles) to 110 km (68 miles). Total = 390 km (242 miles),
4 days, 3 nights

1st day

1st stage, Phuket – Khao Lak = 90 km (56 miles)

We depart in the morning from the Siam Bike Tours shop in Choeng Thale / Laguna. We load the luggage onto the minibus, and after bike fittings and the tour briefing, we finally on the road. After a flat 35 km (22 miles), we cross the majestic Sarasin Bridge to reach the mainland. We follow the spectacular coastal road till Thung Maphrao. Shortly before we reach Khao Lak, there are a few gentle climbs through the splendid Khao Lak Lamru National Park. In the afternoon there is plenty of time for swimming and relaxing, with the luxury of both a swimming pool or the sandy beach to choose from. An elephant ride to the waterfall or a relaxing Thai Massage are other popular activities on offer.

2nd day

2nd stage, Khao Lak – Khao Sok National Park = 105 km (65 miles)

We backtrack to Thung Maphrao on the same route, and then carry on to Plai Hang on a gentle rolling road. After 40 km (25 miles), we take a cut-through road to Ban Phu. We cycle on a quite side road through the ever-changing countryside. We travel through idyllic villages with fantastic mountain views. After 65 km (40.5 miles) we reach the quiet main road to Khao Sok. Shortly before the stage ends, there is a 5 km (3.2 miles) ascent that leads us right through the jungle and into the Khao Sok National Park. After enjoying the final short descent we reach today's final destination. We move to our bungalows for a refreshing shower. As part of the program we spend the afternoon exploring the nearby river on a canoe tour. Bizarre limestone rock formations and dense jungle pass us by. The Khao Sok National Park is famous for its huge variety of plants and wildlife, including bears, leopards and tigers.

3rd day

3rd stage, Khao Sok National Park – Phang Nga = 110 km (68 miles)

For the first 30 km (19 miles), we ride on the quiet main road to Phanom. The majestic limestone rocks topped with jungle vegetation stay with us today. We pedal on a quite rural road, to reach Thap Put. We twist and turn on a raised road through the jungle, heading towards the coast. After 110 km we reach our days target, Khao Chang Bay. We spend the night in a hotel in Khao Chang Bay, near the provincial capital Phang Nga. In the afternoon, we glide in longboats through a world of stony islets, overgrown with lush green vegetation. The Phang Nga Bay National Marine Park is renowned for its unspoilt mangrove landscape. You may recognise the rock formations from the James Bond film "The man with the golden Gun", giving the trip its name as the "James Bond Island Tour"

4th day, final stage and end of an exciting tour

4th stage, Phang Nga - Phuket = 85 km (53 miles)

We follow the main road to Tha Yu and ride on a gently rolling side road. Once again we will be rewarded with a postcard-perfect landscape. After 50 km (31 miles), we cross the famous Sarasin bridge to cross back onto Thailand's largest island, Phuket. The exciting journey finally ends at the Siam Bike Tours Shop in Choeng Thale (Laguna). Proud of what we have achieved, but with a little melancholy that this amazing road bike tour is already over, we lift our glasses with a refreshing drink and propose a toast to the tour.
